Action delayed on Fay's contract

by Arlene Surprenant
A request by School Supt. William Fay to reopen his contract in executive session to discuss a life and disability insurance clause triggered heated debate on the part of the Wilmington School Committee last week. In the end, members voted four to one to table further discussion until they retained a lawyer to advise them how to proceed. Dr. Shirley Callan, chairman, cast the only dissenting vote. She said she felt it was time to discuss the superintendent's contract in open session.

The whole issue was raised by Dr. Callan, who was reacting to an August 19 letter from Fay to the school board. Callan told the Town Crier the committee had originally granted Fay $3,480 per year for his life insurance premium and $720 per year in disability insurance. At the June 21 executive session, the board voted to deny those benefits after learning from Austin Bradhurst, legal counsel for the Massachusetts Association of School Committees, that the committee's action was illegal and "beyond the power of the school committee to carry out."

After the board's action to deny the benefits, Fay filed for arbitration on those articles of his contract. In his August letter, Fay told committeemen he felt "uncomfortable" exercising his arbitration option and would rather have a negotiated settlement that both sides could live with. That settlement would include raising Fay's auto allowance an additional $145 a month and raising his expense allowance another $145 a month in lieu of life and disability insurance. According to Dr. Callan, Fay already gets $100 a month for mileage and $200 a month for his expenses.

Though it was never really discussed in a public session, Fay's base salary is $74,900, not including mileage and other expenses. Dr. Callan said, as of January 1, 1991, Fay will earn $83,743 without life and disability insurance and, as of January 1, 1992, he will earn $89,353. In addition, Fay's contract reportedly allows for 30 vacation days even though Dr. Callan insists the board only negotiated for 20 vacation days.

During discussion, school committee members argued over the advisability of discussing the issue at all because it's been filed for arbitration.

"I think we're on very shaky ground here. I think we're in jeopardy," Dr. Callan told her board as she ruled there would be no discussion on the issue in executive session.

Phil Fenton challenged the chair's decision. He claimed the August letter was a request to negotiate and negotiations can be done in executive session.

Peggy Kane agreed with Callan that the board was on "bad legal terms" and asked if Fay had withdrawn his arbitration option. Bob Surran claimed once arbitration has been filed, both parties can sometimes work out a negotiated settlement.

"Sooner or later you're going to discuss it," he said.

Kane pointed out it would be better to wait for a full board before taking action on Fay's request. Aldo Cairra and Andrea Paglia were not present at Wednesday's meeting.

Counting heads

When the school bus doors opened in front of the Woburn Street School on Wednesday morning, Principal Delores Silva was there to greet and count the children as they exited the bus.

Shawsheen principal hired by Sept. 19?

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington's Shawsheen School could have a new principal by September 19.

In deliberations last Wednesday, the Wilmington School Committee decided to hold a special meeting Wednesday, September 12 at the high school library to interview the three internal candidates recommended for the position. Because the majority of the board said they would like a week to digest candidates' responses, the vote on the successful candidate will take place September 19.

Board member Phil Fenton urged the committee to make its decision quickly in the best interests of the students. Peggy Kane suggested they wait an extra week before choosing a principal because of the "domino effect" and the bumping of teachers that will take place with a candidate taken from within the system. She added the superintendent and committee needed to know the ramifications of choosing any of the three finalists. Fenton said he wanted the most qualified person to get the job.

At present, Assistant Principal

Michele Nortonen is acting as principal. At her request, the board agreed to hire an acting assistant principal for a short time to help with the opening of school.

The vacancy came about with the resignation of Robert Coffill, who has moved to Lebanon, New Hampshire, where he is now high school principal.

Schools rehire some personnel

by Arlene Surprenant
Several teachers aides and Classification E personnel (sports and extra-curricular activities) have been rehired by the Wilmington School Committee.

At their meeting last Wednesday, the board recalled the following kindergarten aides: Ann Sheehan, Diane Ferguson, Sharon Tildsley, and Christine Bento. Business Manager Peter DeRoeve explained the aides are being recalled to replace personnel that have resigned and not to positions they have left. The board also hired all fall Classification E personnel for fall sports. In addition, they went along with a suggestion by committeeman John DeMarco to post the position of assistant trainer at the contract rate.

Committee members balked, however, at a move by Supt. William Fay to reappoint Anna Simmons chairman of Wilmington High's Business Education Department.

During budget deliberations, the committee elected to consolidate the business education, home economics, and industrial arts departments into one department under industrial arts chairman Al Hambleton and do away with Simmons position. In making his recommendation, Fay said the business education vacancy would be criticized by the accreditation committee which will be visiting the high school October 21. The board reminded Fay the three departments were consolidated because the programs all were undersubscribed and there was only a total of 13 teachers in the three departments.

Committeeman Peggy Kane told Fay "that position should never have been brought before us." She suggested if they do reinstate the position, the post should be opened to other candidates.

The board took no action on Fay's recommendation.

Old West School dedication Saturday

Old West School

Built in 1875, Wilmington's old West School has been named to the National Register of Historic Places. Ceremonies will be held on Saturday to dedicate the building a historic site.

by Arlene Surprenant
A special dedication ceremony this Saturday September 8 will mark the induction of the old West School on Shawsheen Avenue, Wilmington, into the National Register of Historic Places. The West School was built in 1875 to replace a former school which had burned down.

The program is scheduled to start at 2 p.m. with a welcome from Carolyn Harris, the lady who chairs the Wilmington Historical Commission. Among those who are expected to speak are the three state representatives: James Miceli, Geoffrey Beckwith, and Augusto Grace, all of whom represent Wilmington in the State House.

Betsy Friedberg of the National Register of the Massachusetts Historical Commission; Town Manager Michael Cairra; Selectman Mark Haldane; Superintendent of Schools Bill Fay; Wilmington School Committee Chairman Dr. Shirley Callan; former Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski; and

Dorothy Lafionatis of the Wilmington Historical Commission will each say a few words.

Captain Larz Neilson, publisher of the Town Crier, is slated to be the last speaker after which there will be a reception in the old school house.

The public is invited to join in the festivities. Parking will be available on the West Schoolhouse side of Shawsheen Avenue and along the water department access road on the same side of the street.

The Wilmington Historical Commission is grateful to the following people and organizations who have worked toward making Saturday's celebration a success: Assistant Town Manager Jeff Hull, the Wilmington Public Buildings Department, The Wilmington Garden Club, Friends of the Harnden Tavern, The Wilmington Public Works Department, the Wilmington Council for the Arts, the Wilmington Minutemen Company, and various local merchants.

Primary day is fast approaching

The state primary is now only less than two weeks away and candidates are positioning themselves for a strong finish in the campaign.

Voting in the primaries is organized into parties. The winners of the primaries will then go on to the general election in November as either the Democratic or the Republican candidate. Therefore anyone voting in the primary may vote with either a Democratic or a Republican ballot.

Persons presently listed as voters belonging to one party may only vote with that party ballot, but anyone who is listed as independent may choose which ballot to take at the polls. They may also re-enroll as they leave the polls to retain the status as an independent. Otherwise they will become enrolled in the party with which they voted in the primary.

Following is a listing of the candidates for office:

League of Women Voters plans candidates' debates

There is no better way to separate reality from rhetoric than to hear the candidates for office respond to important questions in a fair and unbiased debate. The League of Women Voters of Wilmington, Reading, North Reading and Bedford are working together to bring such debates to the public. Debates will be held for the office of House of Representatives for the 20th, 21st and 23rd Middlesex District seats.

The first forum in this series, presented through the cooperation of the Reading, North Reading and Wilmington Leagues, is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lecture Hall of Reading High School. Voter Service Representative Kate Gass of Reading reports that all six candidates for the 21st district seat - Democrats Sandra Trainor, Edwin Loschi, Jr., Stephen O'Leary and Steven Sullivan and Republicans Robert Kerkorian and Philip (Nick) O'Brien, Jr. will attend the forum.

The format will include opening statements from each candidate followed by the candidates responses to written questions from the audience. Those unable to attend the forum may view live cable coverage of the event or watch for possible repeat air dates prior to the primary election on September 18.

A pre-election debate for the 20th district seat, presented by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington, is scheduled for Monday, October 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks Club. Wilmington co-president Esta Browning urges voters of Wilmington's sixth precinct to attend the pre-primary forum offered in Reading on September 11 and indicates that details of the pre-election debates planned for the 20th and 23rd district seats will be made public immediately

Subdivision for Hopkins Street

by Arlene Surprenant
 Plans for a 12 lot subdivision off Hopkins Street were presented to the Wilmington Planning Board

Homebuyers' lottery date changed

The lottery date for selection of persons to buy affordable housing units in the new Shawsheen River estates project has been changed from October 6 to October 13 according to developer Jay Tighe.

The deadline for applications remains September 14. Applications should be turned in to the town manager's office in the Town Hall.

In conjunction with the application process, there will be a seminar for first-time homebuyers on September 12 and 13 at Town Hall at 7:30 p.m.

Tuesday by proponent James Castellano. The subdivision would be located on Hopkins Street next to the Billerica town line on the opposite side from the former Chisholm milk farm.

Castellano said he hopes to rezone the property to R10 because all lots are close to 10,000 square feet. He said he also plans to hook into the town sewer when developer Jay Tighe brings the line to the milk farm for Shawsheen River Estates.

Planners suggested Castellano begin gathering signatures so he can prepare a warrant article on the rezoning for the next town meeting. They said until a public hearing is held, they can't legally comment on the proposed rezoning. Castellano said all his neighbors were in favor of the project.

The third program in this series, scheduled for Wednesday, October 24th at 7:45 p.m., will provide voters of the 23rd district an opportunity to hear their candidates, incumbent Democrat Augusto Grace and Republican challenger Marianne Brenton. Wilmington residents from the third precinct are welcome and are encouraged to attend.

Tutors part of WHS unit

by Arlene Surprenant
 Tutors in the Wilmington School System will now be recognized as part of Unit A of the Wilmington Teachers Association in the teachers' contract.

Supt. William Fay recommended the school committee recognize the tutors at last Wednesday's board meeting. He said the WTA wants the tutors recognized as part of the bargaining unit or they will take the issue up with the labor relations board. Once recognized, the tutors can bargain hours, wages, and working conditions, he said.

Dr. Shirley Callan, chairman, asked if the tutors would need certification. Fay said no, though last year all the tutors were certified.

The board voted three to two to go along with the superintendent's recommendation. Dr. Callan and Bob Surran were opposed.

It's YOUR Money

by Joyce Brisbois
 Certified Public Accountant

PUTTING MONEY IN AN IRA

Despite changes in the tax law, an Individual Retirement Account remains one of the best tax shelters around.

IRA contributions remain deductible for millions of people. If neither spouse is covered by another pension plan, there are no income limitations. If either is covered, contributions remain fully deductible if joint adjusted gross income is $40,000 or less and partially deductible up to an AGI of $50,000. (The limits for singles are $25,000 and $35,000).

Consider a rollover IRA to shelter a distribution from a pension plan or 401(k). Unless you opt for an IRA to continue deferring taxes you have to pay taxes on all tax-deferred contributions and earnings - and also a 10 percent penalty on a pension plan distribution of you're under 59-1/2.

Important: if you're putting money in an IRA do it as early in the year as possible to earn more tax-deferred interest.

Democratic primary*A look at the candidates for governor

by Lisa Cutone
In less than two weeks Massachusetts voters will cast their ballots for Governor in the state primary. The Democratic primary contains three candidates for Governor:

Francis X. Bellotti, former attorney general; John Silber, B.U. president; and Evelyn Murphy, lieutenant governor. Murphy is by far the most liberal candidate, calling for more taxes, increased funding of education, and total privacy rights for women on abortion. John Silber is the most controversial character, he is labeled as the more conservative candidate and yet he does embrace the Democratic values. He proposes some radical changes to the current system which will revive the state's economy and education system. He claims to be the only viable Democratic candidate and an alternative to voting Republican for a change. Bellotti, the front runner, has managed to gain the most support by falling in between his two rivals. His political stance on most issues is moderate and thus far that has helped him, but it could work against him and for the Republicans since he is not distinguishing himself from the current administration.

Murphy is the most liberal candidate running for Governor. She is a distant third in the Democratic primary behind Francis X. Bellotti and John Silber. Murphy has a small group of core supporters made up of women, liberals, and strong environmentalists. Her campaign has not done well especially this year in a state looking for a more conservative leader from outside of the current leadership.

Tax issue
Murphy opposes the CLT petition saying that it would create chaos in state government and severely damage the state's fragile economy. She says that we need to send a message to businesses saying that we are a stable state, so that they (businesses) will locate here and expand.

Murphy plans to raise money through tight fist management, entitlement reforms, and elimination of bureaucratic "Sat."

She does favor new taxes along with cuts in budget.

Education
On education, Murphy promises to provide $250 million in extra funding to schools that come up with and execute a new educational plan. She proposed a $25,000 a year minimum pay for teachers which will eventually be raised to $30,000 a year. This base pay will make teaching a more respected profession and attract better teachers.

Abortion
Murphy says that abortion should be a woman's private decision at any point during a pregnancy. She would allow unrestricted abortion up to nine months of pregnancy. She supports public funding of abortions for poor women and public employees. She also supports abortion for minors.

Murphy goes as far as to say that she would only appoint judges who had the same views as she does, especially on abortion.

Murphy is also opposed to the death penalty.

Francis X. Bellotti, former attorney general

Thus far Frank Bellotti is the Democratic front runner in what has been a long and nasty race for Governor. Bellotti has been involved in MA politics for many years and is closely associated with Governor Dukakis, as is Evelyn Murphy.

Tax issue
Bellotti is opposed to the passage of the CLT petition. Like all the democrats he believes that it would cripple the already ailing state. He would support new taxes if the money was being spent wisely.

Bellotti has remained vague on many issues. His strategy seems to be one that will keep him from alienating any large group of voters. He has not taken a sharp or clear stance on many issues.

Abortion
Bellotti claims to support abortion for women even though he is religiously opposed. He says that he is a "Roe vs Wade" candidate which allows abortion up to the second trimester. But Bellotti was also quoted as having said that 24 weeks is too far for him. He has been attacked by Murphy on the inconsistency of his stand several times.

Bellotti says that he has always been a supporter of women. He raised the number of women in positions of authority 40 percent as attorney general. He says that if he is elected Governor "about half" of his appointments will be women.

Education
Bellotti has no real changes proposed for higher education. At the public school level he supports the $25,000 a year pay minimum for teachers and would favor incentives for teachers who perform well. He does mention competency testing for teachers and longer school days.

Health care
For the health care arena, Bellotti would create another state agency separate from the Department of Public Health, which would oversee health care issues for the state.

On the issue of Aids, Bellotti would restore the $600,000 recently cut from the Aids budget. He would begin an aggressive, voluntary testing program, and create housing for Aids patients. He opposes needle distribution to drug abusers, but he does support the availability of condoms to prisoners.

John Silber, BU President (on leave)

Like the other Democratic gubernatorial candidates Silber opposes the CLT petition. He says that if he is elected the people of the state will realize that they do not need that initiative to roll back taxes and fees, because he offers alternatives. For example Silber proposes a 12 cent gasoline tax which would be used to finance road repairs and maintenance. He does support taxes if they are necessary.

Education
Silber is by far the most aggressive candidate on education issues. He proposes testing for students in the fourth, eighth and 12th grades. He would suspend funds for schools where 20 percent of students fail the last test two years in a row. He supports the $25,000 a year minimum teacher salary mentioned above, and a test for teacher certification which also requires a four year B.A. degree.

At the university level, Silber would raise the tuition at UMass to $5000 a year. He says that this money would fund programs at UMass and even provide financial aid to needy students who could not afford the tuition increase.

Women's issues
Silber is usually criticized for his stance on women's issues, but B.U. actually has the highest number of tenured women faculty members than any other research university in the United States.

Silber would support abortion rights as mandated in "Roe vs Wade" even though he is personally opposed to abortion. He would require consent in the case of a minor.

Silber also favors universally available day care in public schools.

Health care
Silber has proposed a number of ways to cut medical costs. One would be to reform the malpractice rules of the state, another would be the institution of living wills. A living will determines when costly life-sustaining treatments should be ceased in order to curtail the suffering of a patient. Silber also said that health care must be rationed. He says that he would not have state funds pay for a heart transplant in an 80 year old man when the funds could be used for young children with treatable maladies.

Silber, author of "Straight Shooting What's Wrong With America and How to Fix it" has proposed a lot of policies that would change MA government. He supports a work fare program which would have able bodied men and women on welfare earn their money through some type of work. This type of program has been instituted in other states and has been quite successful.

Silber has been a very controversial candidate. At the beginning of his campaign, he vowed not to talk plastic and he has kept his promise. Many people do not like his unedited comments but his "straight talk" has garnered support from others. He is currently trailing Frank Bellotti in the polls.

Next week get to know the Republican candidates for Governor: Rep. Steve Pierce, Westfield and Attorney General

Let's Keep Route 38 From Becoming Another Red Light District.

If driving from one part of town to another makes you see red, you're in good company.

Because nowadays getting around Tewksbury and Wilmington is no easy task. In the last ten years traffic load on Route 38 in Tewksbury has increased dramatically. And down the road in Wilmington it's even worse.

Unfortunately, the present state representative has done little to improve the situation though he easily could have. Instead, Jim Miceli has been busy helping the big developers and their cronies...the very people who have brought us the unplanned growth and traffic congestion we face every day.

For example, Jim Miceli has consistently refused to work with local officials to find a solution to the problem. He opposed the bridge replacement, traffic congestion and center revitalization solution overwhelmingly approved by voters in last year's referendum.

Rocco DePasquale supported that referendum. What Rocco has always opposed is the type of unplanned, unchecked growth that has contributed to traffic congestion along Route 38 in Tewksbury and Wilmington.

And Rocco always saw that existing planning procedures and zoning by-laws were fully enforced.

As your next representative, Rocco will continue to work with state and local officials and neighborhood groups to assess traffic patterns and develop new routing procedures to steer heavy traffic away from congested areas and neighborhoods.

Rocco's running. On September 18th give Rocco the green light. ★

Frankly speaking

by Paul H. Sullivan

As I watched the selectmen's meeting last week, I thought it was a little odd that the town of Tewksbury had yet to deal with the almost certain deficit that it faces. It seemed particularly odd since other towns, like Wilmington, had put their budget problems behind them.

The town manager stated to the selectmen and the townspeople that the Department of Revenue had not yet certified the "free cash" account, and until it did, the town's financial picture would remain unclear.

What the town manager did not tell the public was that the auditor had not submitted the necessary documentation, which is a balance sheet, to the Massachusetts Department of Revenue as required by law. I suppose that since the town manager did not specifically state that the auditor had submitted the legal documentation, that he did not technically lie. It can be said, though, that his misleading of the board was less than candid.

If the town manager believes that he was candid, he should ask the members of the board. Tom Camara said that the incomplete paperwork was news to him. It also came as a surprise to selectmen Carciofi and Coppola.

Only Chairman of the Board Bill Hurton seemed aware that the Revenue Department was waiting for some information. Why he did not clarify it for the public or the other members of the board is a real question.

For the town manager's part, he states that the hold-up was due to the town's new computer system. You remember the famous computer system. This is the system that caused so much controversy when the town manager hired the town finance committee chairman's wife, instead of a long-time town employee with 25 years of computer experience and a degree in a computer related field.

This is the same computer system that the town auditor oversaw for the last year, while receiving a pay increase of over $30,000, not to mention that the auditor receives longevity payments that are traditionally and contractually reserved for full time permanent employees. But those are just some of my personal pet peeves.

The real issue is that the townspeople and members of the board are being led to believe that the town is attempting to put its financial house in order. That we are being held at the mercy of the Department of Revenue when the truth is that the town auditor has not completed the legally required paperwork.

Now, you may ask who cares? And you are probably right, who does care? Well, the cuts that may be made now are going to be all the more painful since the town is one-sixth through its fiscal year. Not to mention the type of disruption it will cause if the axe falls on the school department, which has already set classes and assignments.

I'm also curious why Selectman Jay Kelley, a former 10 year member of the finance committee and self-appointed financial expert of the town, did not point this out to the board. I don't suppose that it was because it didn't suit his political needs. And he certainly didn't want to cause the town auditor any embarrassment. This is the same auditor, who, along with the town manager, joined Kelley in engineering a plan to increase his pay for three years so that he could get himself a nice fat pension. About $40,000 a year. Well, maybe if Kelley and the pals the town manager included spent more time being candid and less time taking care of the pals, the town would be better off.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I am writing you because I am disturbed when I see local leaders like our State Representative Augie Grace, take credit for doing something they did not actually do. For instance, why does Augie Grace keep trying to take credit for trying to fix the Burlington Street bridge in Wilmington? It should have been fixed months ago. If the state DPW and our State Representative Augie Grace were doing their job, the bridge's structural problems would have been addressed before there was need to give it "emergency status." Even with the declaration that the bridge has emergency status, it still take nine months to repair the bridge.

As our Representative, Augie Grace should have been pressuring the state to do something to repair or replace the bridge over the four years he has held this office. His effort is too little, too late. We are fortunate that no one has been seriously hurt.

I was also disturbed when I saw Augie Grace standing arm and arm with the Duke at the bridge, it was amazing to see the gaul of our Governor talking about how much they are doing to rebuild our state's infrastructure. Both Augie Grace and the Governor, of course conveniently failed to mention that the state has refused to release $100 million earmarked to repair roads and bridges.

If this money was released, the Feds will invest more than $350 million to repair our infrastructure. What has Augie Grace done to make sure the state fulfills its promises to taxpayers, - very little. It's time for a major change in Massachusetts and that's why I'm voting all incumbents out.

Sincerely,
Harry Johnston

Dear Larz:

While reading the August 22nd edition of the Town Crier, I came across "Summer Ramblings" by George R. Allan. I applaud Mr. Allan for writing this column. It highlights several topics of a timely nature.

One of the topics he covered dealt with burning used motor oil. George's suggestion to purchase a special oil burner which burns used motor oil is an excellent one. As a matter of fact, the Town already burns used motor oil. In the fall of 1989, the Town installed a "Black Gold" oil burner at the Public Works garage. The burner operates on used motor oil. The Town of Wilmington is saving money on oil while at the same time recycling yet another limited commodity.

Wilmington Recycles!

Very truly yours,
Jeffrey M. Hull
Asst. Town Manager

Dear Larz:

After reading one of my letters to the editor, Dr. I.M. Nutz, a shrink, told me that I'm socially masochistic. I said I'd like a second opinion. Okay, he said, you're ugly, too. Bud a bang - bud a boom! Thanks Rodney.

And to prove I'm no gentleman, I'm going to cut to the chase and tell it like it is. Which shall be an act of social masochism.

Brightness on board

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Bob Atkinson and Jim Stewart have been appointed the representatives of Wilmington to the Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) Advisory Board. Other persons are being appointed to represent North Reading and Lynnfield. The purpose is to have a board which will present an inter-town view of problems to the RMLD.

The appointment, by the Wilmington selectmen, is good. Both men can well and honestly represent the town.

Mr. Stewart, well known, is a former selectman who was elected temporary town moderator in the last special town meeting. Mr. Atkinson, for many years a director of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, is an employee of Agfa-Compugraphic. He is the facilities manager for that company, and not just in Wilmington. As such he understands the use of electric power.

Some years past the directors of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce became aware of the relatively high prices for electric power that Wilmington industrial and commercial firms were paying. Investigation showed that residents, too, were being over charged.

A contact was made with the selectmen, and a joint board meeting made to go to a board meeting of the Reading Municipal Light Department. The results were totally unsatisfactory. The RMLD board totally ignored the visitors.

The Chamber officials, with the aid of Atkinson, made a study and it was determined that it would be better if Wilmington withdrew from the RMLD, providing no satisfactory agreement was reached. It was a thorough study. The chamber officials politely left the negotiations to the Wilmington town officials.

First there was an article, voted in town meeting, to withdraw from RMLD if no satisfactory agreement was reached. That vote had its effect in Reading, and new directors were chosen for the RMLD.

The negotiated agreement, after that, proposed a reduction of costs in residential rates, but nothing for commercial and industrial rates. A special town meeting was called to vote on the agreement.

There had been no public discussion of the problem. Mr. Atkinson, too, was out of town on business.

The Chamber of Commerce felt that industrial and commercial light rates should also be subject to negotiation. There were two directors in the chamber who could present views in that town meeting - Rocco DePasquale and the publisher of the Town Crier.

Both men spoke, with Mr. DePasquale presenting the more forceful arguments. The motion to accept just barely passed. A few more negative votes would have defeated it.

A representative of RMLD sat in the visitors box, during that town meeting. The lesson was heard, and understood.

The inter-town discussion of problems is now an accepted fact. The past difficulties, it seems, are being eradicated. And the people of Wilmington are fortunate that their representatives are Mr. Stewart and Mr. Atkinson.

Recycle with a friend

Wilmington and Tewksbury have both had quite a bit of success with voluntary recycling programs. Materials that would have been trucked to the NEWSC incinerator North Andover at more than $62 a ton are now being recycled. Besides a savings for the town on rubbish costs, there is also the factor of saving raw materials. When manufacturers can use recycled materials, there is less demand for stripping those same materials out of earth's dwindling resources.

Tewksbury picks up newspapers at the curb, but Wilmington's program is entirely on a carry-in basis. Residents are encouraged to carry their recyclable materials (aluminum, glass, plastic milk jugs, newspapers and leaves) to the recycling center on Saturday. Tewksbury uses this same approach for aluminum, glass and steel.

There are some limitations, such as the hours of operation. Some people have suggested expanding the hours. That requires additional volunteers. Without volunteers to police the area, the recycling programs cannot run.

One other idea is for neighbors to pool their recyclables. Not only does this free people from a Saturday morning trip - it also gives neighbors a chance to promote recycling among their friends. With enough participants, people would be able to do their part for the environment without using up their valuable Saturday time.

Stu Neilson has started a group in his neighborhood. Why not steal his idea and get together with your neighbors?

The word around town is that acting town manager Mike Caira is in place for becoming town manager for keeps. After glad handing those in some of the various organizations and institutions in town over the years, he has created for himself a solid base in which to gain favor in what shall be, I'm sure, a popularity contest.

Poor Jeff Hull. He worked hard under Buzz Stapczynski and has acquired valuable experience that could be useful as the town manager. He should be promoted; however, I believe, Caira's bid is a foregone conclusion. Hack, hack, hack. Sorry, it seems I've come down with a cold.

While I'm sounding off, I might as well say something about tightwads. There are many who support the Citizens for Limited Taxation proposal to roll back taxes "because it's good for me" as Jerry Williams often says over his broadcast. And I guess if you're a have-not, too bad for you. "So long as I've got mine" is really the popular sentiment of anti-taxers.

On the streets of Boston, I see and speak with some of the homeless as I hand out some pocket change. Many of them ought to be in institutions, but to do that will cost the taxpayers millions each year. A cut and slash budget won't help them as well as the many others who need the assistance. I'd think twice about being area coordinator for CLT Mark Haldane. It was you who campaigned on the front lawn of the Congregational Church when you ran for selectman. Have you forgotten your Christian duty to bring "good will to all men?" That includes the mentally handicapped living in the streets.

Wilmington's precinct 6 hopeful for state representative Ed Loschi shows signs of glad handing. During the April voting, he darted over to me, introduced himself, and while I was telling him some of my concerns, I could see his eyes looking over me and to each side of my head. When he spotted someone else, he shook my hand again, and ran off.

Perhaps Dr. I.M. Nutz is correct in his assessment of me, that is to say, I'm ugly-er, I mean socially masochistic because of my candor for blunt honesty. It may even make be an unpopular figure in town, but as Bart Simpson is fond of saying, "I'm an underachiever and proud of it."

Dear Larz:

Just when you thought it was safe to watch local tv on a full stomach, Continental Cablevision proved once again that, "it's to Jim Miceli what the Boston Globe is to Dukakis. With the cable box set on channel six, one of my kids hit the button last Wednesday. On came the lights, churn did my lower intestine, down went the Pepto, for there in my livingroom, appearing on screen, were two bombastic bookends; an over weight interviewer named Wolfgang, and the ultimate "couch potato," Jim Miceli. Now I know why they call it the "Boob Tube." Wolfgang's Woburn, now that's original. This stuff was bad for both constitutions, personal and political. According to Jim's polling, he's got the primary in the bag. The same bag used by most airlines for motion discomfort. "Oh, stewardess, take this please!"

Were the polled through the same people who picked the Dodge over the Mercedes in that stupid commercial?

Yah, know, Jim is responsible for many public works projects. Leave it to a pol to turn a traffic light into a project. Take the intersection of route's 129 and 38, better known as 1-2-3 Red Light. Forty years of gridlock, for a road used by more people than Barney Frank's bedroom, and for those of you who leave the plaza around fiveish or so, you'll have better luck crossing the Iraqi border.

Did you all know Jim was named "Man of the Year," by the Mass Municipal Association, Yah, that was back in 1978, back before the Mass Miracle, the Mass deficit, and the Massive nephew. And how about those oil tanks at Wilmington High? Think for a minute. Back then, the state's economy was booming, the state was full of money (among other things), environmental programs were "In" and Jim was still kissy kissy with George Keverian. Favors were plenty!

What about now? Is it possible that another school could have the same thing happen? If it does, are you ready for another "override?" Add that to the current popularity of Miceli at the state house (as popular as foot fungus), and you've got "much on a duck."

Getting back to the program, it was about to end on a sour note, a little diddy called "Wailin in the Keys," which sounds more like someone breaking a penquin's knees, when a thought occurred to me; how are either of these guys going to roll off that marshmallow sofa, and who's going to replace the divots in the cushions?

One of the many advantages of the incumbent is the ability to generate free publicity. Just call a press conference, attend a grand opening, cut a ribbon for a new bridge; all of these are free advertisement for the entrenched pol, so to off-set this trend, a equal media access law was established for the purpose of allowing opposing view points and political challengers the same opportunities, in the same forum.

Continental Cablevision has shown bias in its presentation of political programs, and Wolfgang's Woburn provided the final example. If Continental Cablevision wants to continue to provide cable services to a regional area, they should reconsider their current practice of political programming, and allow others with a different stance on the subjects discussed, to voice their opinions in a equal light.

A special day
for Annie

Wednesday was an extra-special day for Annie Hanlon. While other youngsters were piling into yellow school buses for the first day of school, Annie had the pleasure of embarking in a white limo. The occasion? Five-year-old Annie was headed for Middlesex Superior Court in Cambridge where she was officially adopted by Bill and Terry Hanlon, who have raised her since she was eight months old. The Hanlons are dedicated to this type of relationship, and have raised many children in addition to their own. A few years ago, they were honored by the Archdiocese of Boston as parents of the year.

A GRAY AREA OF CONCERN

Regardless of what anyone has seen in a horror movie, shock or stress does not play a role in turning hair gray. Hair turns gray purely on the basis of a person's genetic makeup. On average, Caucasians can expect to begin graying at about age 34, and there is an even chance that they will be half gray by age 50. People of color begin graying, on average, at about age 44. Regardless of its timing, graying occurs because of a cessation of pigment production at the hair root. Any hair produced beyond that point begins to come in gray. There has never been a documented case of pigmented hair shedding its color and turning gray overnight without benefit of bleach.

While some men and women are content with their gray hair, others may feel more youthful with their previous color or a new one. Consult the hair and beauty specialists at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON, 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129 Wilmington. ## Water access issue in Upton Park plan

by Arlene Surprenant
A consultant for the proposed Upton Technology Park subdivision was warned by Wilmington's Water Superintendent Paul Duggan Tuesday she couldn't bring water mains in an easement through one lot to service another. When told the plan was to bring it in a right-of-way, Duggan said water mains have to go through a public way.

Consultant Irene McSweeney Woodfall, of the engineering firm Allen, DeMurjian, and Major Inc, explained she had been working on the project with PGA Realty Trust of North Andover for the past five years. She said though there are no real development plans for the three lot commercial subdivision, the proponent Peter Crocker wants to get the roads developed for when the economy turns around.

The proposed subdivision will be located on 37 acres off Andover Street. A preliminary plan was submitted in 1986 and again this year. In the definitive plan presented to the board last night, Upton Drive is extended 180 feet with a turnaround for emergency vehicles and snow plows. Jonspin Road Extension will also allow access to the subdivision but is not planned as a major access road, Woodfall said.

During discussion at the public hearing, Duggan said lot one can be serviced from the southerly side of Upton Drive but proponents can't go across and service lot two. Woodfall said she was surprised by Duggan's comments. She added to improve the water pressure, proponents plan to loop the line to give better flow and prevent sedimentation build-up. The board later advised Woodfall to meet with the water commissioners to resolve the water issue before they take a vote on the project September 18.

Abuttor Earl Hupper sought the board's help in accessing his ten acre landlocked property, which is adjacent to the proposed development. Hupper said after speaking to nearby property owners as well as Crocker about accessing his lot, he still had no way of getting to Ballardvale Street.

Chairman Dave Clark said, legally, his board couldn't require the owner to provide access. Another abuttor argued that the board's bylaws allow members to require a developer to give access for a landlocked lot.

"This is my last chance to get out of the property. It's my last hope," said Hupper.

The state has serious problems: taxes, prison overcrowding, hazardous and solid waste disposal.

It also has a new generation of young people anxious to help tackle these and many other concerns.

Jim Miceli understands that the best way to get our young people interested in government, is to show them government from the inside.

That's why, starting with his first year in office, he began his innovative intern program at the State house. Students are able to witness government up close, experience the lawmaking process, participate in solving constituent problems, and evaluate the system's strengths and weaknesses.

The idea is simple. The seeds of tomorrow's leadership need to be planted today.

Representative Jim Miceli's intern program does just that.

School lunch a bargain

The Wilmington School Lunch Program is a self-supporting program within the School Department. All costs of food, equipment, supplies, salaries of all personnel including the director and secretary and most maintenance of equipment as well as replacement of equipment is paid out of school lunch funds. Money is not taken from the School Department budget to subsidize the School Lunch Program.

The cost of the program is supported by the money paid by the children, and reimbursement by the state and federal government of approximately $.25 per meal. The majority of the food purchased is purchased on the open market through a bid system or weekly quote. There is some government commodity surplus used in the program and that has a cost factor also. The cost of commodity food is a percentage of market value, trucking and storage.

The lunch at school, when a child takes all the components, provides one third of the child's daily nutrients.

When you consider the cost of a sandwich, vegetable, and milk at your local fast food restaurant approximately $2.50 as well as the cost of making a lunch at home for approximately $1.50, the cost of lunch at school at $1.25 is a bargain.

Just a reminder to parents - there is no charging of lunch, milk or dessert at all schools, including elementary school children.

backyard gardening

A Wilmington gardener writes as follows, "I have two eight-year-old peach trees in my yard, both of which have been bearing fruit for three years, thanks to a successful spraying program. This year the peaches are few and far between and quite small compared to last year. Any ideas as to what happened to my peaches this year?"

Your's is a familiar story in eastern Massachusetts this year. I have two good sized plum trees and a peach tree which bore about one quarter as much fruit this summer compared to 1989. The problem originated last December when we experienced several below zero nights before this year's fruit buds had a chance to completely "harden" for the winter. As a result almost every peach and plum tree in our area experienced an estimated 75 percent loss to fruit bud winter kill. A few trees of unusually hardy varieties suffered little damage. Apple trees lost very little to the early severe cold, since apple trees are more endemic to our climate.

As to why the few peaches you do have are smaller, from late May through mid July you will recall we experienced a fairly severe drought. Although the rains finally came in torrents, it was too late to fully "size up" most of the fruit on our trees. I have a nice crop of Cortland and Winesap apples this summer, but I note they are only three-quarters their normal size at early September.

From a Tewksbury tomato grower, "I have the misfortune of not enjoying a lot of direct sunlight where I grow tomatoes. The plants receive maybe four hours of sun in the afternoon. (Next year I'll find a better spot.) My dozen plants have grown tall, probably reaching up for the sun, and are pretty well loaded with green tomatoes. Here it is early September and we have not eaten one ripe tomato! Anything we can do to hasten the ripening process?"

Probably not. Adequate sunlight, as you've discovered, is critical in the ripening of tomatoes. I've found that with anything less than five hours a day of direct sun exposure, the ripening process becomes painfully slow. If we are lucky and we don't get frosted for another four weeks, you should harvest some, but not all of your tomatoes. Keep an ear tuned to the evening weather forecasts from now on, since they are already experiencing scattered frosts in the hills of Vermont and New Hampshire. Our turn will come in two or four weeks. You should take in all of your tomatoes, ripening and still green, as soon as a frost is forecast. The fruits which have started to pink up will continue to ripen; those which are still green, probably will not.

Any good cookbook will have recipes for green tomato relish, and this is as good a way to use your "greenies" as I know of. (If any reader has an especially good green tomato relish recipe, send it in and we'll share it in this column.)

Garden Club meetings

The Wilmington Garden Club held the last monthly meeting in May and will resume meetings and membership in September for the second year. Congratulations to Judi Johnston, founder and president of the Wilmington Garden Club for making this all happen.

Elections were held at the last meeting and the results are: President, Judi Johnston, second term; Vice President, Hugh Wiberg, second term; Secretary, Dolores Brown, second term; Treasurer Barbara Wiberg, second term; bylaws Jean Hartka, second term; civic projects, Adele Passmore, second term; program, Larry Doucette, second term; public relations, Elise Semmler, second term; hospitality, Cathy Parker relieving Pat Johnston.

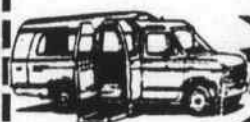

Although Garden Club meetings have faded for the summer, civic projects are blooming on. These projects are being maintained by carefully planned club members who seem to be just as comfortable with a hose over the shoulder as a pocketbook or bucket in the hand as with a wallet in the seat of the pants.

These projects can be seen at the intersections of Middlesex and North, Middlesex and High, Middlesex Ave. at Harnden Tavern, the window boxes at the Fourth of July Headquarters, the W next to the building, and Wilmington Common.

The Wilmington Garden Club would like to remind everyone the summer is the best time to remember recycling. The recycling center is taking plastic milk and juice containers as well as the plastic six pack holders. Protect our wildlife by cutting up these plastic holders to prevent animals and birds from strangling in them. As always, glass, aluminum cans and paper are welcome.

The Garden Club meetings will resume September 27, the fourth Thursday of every month in the Fourth of July Headquarters at 7:30 p.m. Membership runs Sept.-May with a $12 individual membership and $25 husband/wife membership. All new and old members are welcome. For more information contact Judi Johnston at 657-4766.

A lot of hospitals promise quality care.

We offer living proof.

It's the smile on the face of a young girl. The look of confidence in a mother's eyes. It's a visible sense of well-being. The look of renewed health. It's living proof. And at New England Memorial, we believe it's the best proof of quality care a hospital can offer—the stories of people like yourself who have made the right choice for so many reasons.

It's the quality of our staff. In every department of our modern facility, it's the superior nursing and physician care we provide. It's the quality of caring that touches our patients' lives in such significant ways. It's the genuine compassion that's an integral part of our approach to psychiatric care. It's the warmth and hope that enhance our fertility center. It's the hand and heart working together making our staff the right choice for so many families.

We're right where you need us most—close to home in a convenient, suburban location that eliminates the problems of parking and traffic jams.

Add to this our commitment to providing state-of-the-art medical equipment, and you start to see the whole picture. It's the picture of a mother's joy. A family's reunion. It's the picture of health. And at New England Memorial, we think that's the best proof of quality care a hospital can offer. ### A BREATH OF FRESH AIR

Increased energy efficiency has given rise to building techniques that stress airtight construction. While all commercial and residential building constructed in this manner require fewer heating and cooling dollars, some display an unfortunate side effect. "Sick building Syndrome" (SBS) occurs when the stale, polluted indoor air of airtight buildings is not replenished with healthier fresh air.

The consequence for residents and workers in "sick buildings" may be eye, nose and throat irritation, as well as headaches and listlessness. The SBS sources may be outgassings from building materials and carpeting, cleaning agents, etc. Fortunately for SBS sufferers, NASA has discovered that many common houseplants combat SBS by degrading chemical substances in the air and converting them to food. One plant per 10 square meters can ensure healthy air.

Office buildings are more air-tight than most homes, and plants and flower arrangements in workplaces are also healthy for the spirit! Visit A & M NURSERY AND FLORIST, 911 East Street in Tewksbury, convenient to downtown and route 93. We are a full-service garden center and landscaper and we welcome your questions. We have plant food, water systems, fertilizers and sprays. Open 8-5:30 Mon-Sat, 8-4 Sundays. Phone 851-4472. Let our florists design weekly arrangements for your company's reception areas.

HINT: English ivy, bamboo palm, gerbera daisy, spider plant, potted mums, and other plants are effective in combating SBS.

Applications for art lottery funds

The Wilmington Council for the Arts awards arts lottery money twice yearly. The deadline for the fall cycle will be Friday, September 21. Applications for scholarships and grants are now available at the town hall and the public library in Wilmington. All applications must be typed in triplicate.

Guidelines for filling out the applications will also be available. PASS applications may be procured by teachers at their schools.

Miss Lorraine Kalil, high school director of arts, will make PASS applications available.

It is of the utmost importance at this cycle period that all rules be carefully followed. Because of the present economic situation in Massachusetts the money allotted to the Wilmington Council has been decidedly curtailed. For this reason absolutely no application will be considered if it is either incomplete or is not in compliance with the rules; it will be automatically rejected without the council giving it further attention. This will be a strictly adhered to rule. Applications must be received at the town hall by September 21.

An applicant for a scholarship must have been accepted at a college in which his degree and course of study is art related. He/she must be available for an interview with the council on a date to be announced. At this time he/she must be ready to provide a portfolio of his/her work.

The completed and properly typed forms may be returned to the Wilmington Council for the Arts, Town Hall, Wilmington.

Adult education registration

Registration has begun for the Wilmington Community Education autumn program. The class will be held at Wilmington High School Monday evenings starting September 24.

Registration forms and brochures will be available at the town library. Mail in registration is most successful for persons wanting a specific popular class. Walk-in registration will be at Wilmington High School cafe September 17 at 7 p.m. Here the instructors will be available to discuss your needs for a class. Many classes have senior citizen discount.

There is a variety of eight week courses and some one night workshops available. You do not have to be a resident of Wilmington to participate.

The courses in demand are Word Processing IBM, Lotus 123 computer, high school equivalency, managing and starting your own business, typing I and typing II, adult band, ceramics, tole painting, quilting and middle eastern dance.

In general, the tuitions and fees have increased this year to reflect the need to have a program for adults in the self-sustaining, non-profit organization system.

Wilmington senior topics

Council meets Sept. 10

The Council on Aging meeting will be held in the function room of the Buzzell Senior Center Monday, Sept. 10. The chairman will report on the special town meeting and how we fared on our budget. After the business meeting, candidates seeking the office of State Representative, Rep. Jim Miceli, Rocco DePasquale and Kevin Sowyrda will be allowed to speak to the seniors. If you have any questions you would like to ask any of the candidates this will be your opportunity to do so. This may be the question on the mind of other seniors waiting for an answer. Refreshments will be served following the meeting. The candidates will remain in the Center to answer any other questions you may have.

Legal rep on vacation

The legal representative from the Elder Law Project is on vacation and will not be at the Center the first Wednesday of September.

Senior swim to resume

With the opening of school senior swim will resume at Shawsheen Tech. Call the school for the day and time, 667-2111 ext. 34. Swimming is one of the best forms of exercise for those suffering from stiffness in the joints, muscles caused by arthritis, strokes, or accidents. Join the seniors who will be returning for another year of swimming.

Minibus notes

The Council has a minibus to transport seniors living alone or with spouse with no car available to take them to medical appointments during the day. It is also available for seniors living alone with no car and no family member living in the town who can take them shopping during the day, evening or weekends. We will take you one day a week. We have a large number of medical appointments a week. This type of transportation takes priority over all other. But it must be remembered the minibus is not a taxi. A senior cannot call and tell us when they want to be taken to the doctor or hospital and when they want to be taken home. If you have a morning appointment it is necessary to call the center at least the day before you want the transportation. You will be told be ready by 9 a.m. The reason for this is we have three or four seniors with appointments that day in several different surrounding towns, to get everyone to their appointment on time the driver may have to pick up all between 9-9:30 a.m. Other times the driver may have a hospital run in the opposite direction from the other runs. In that case you may not be picked up until the driver returns.

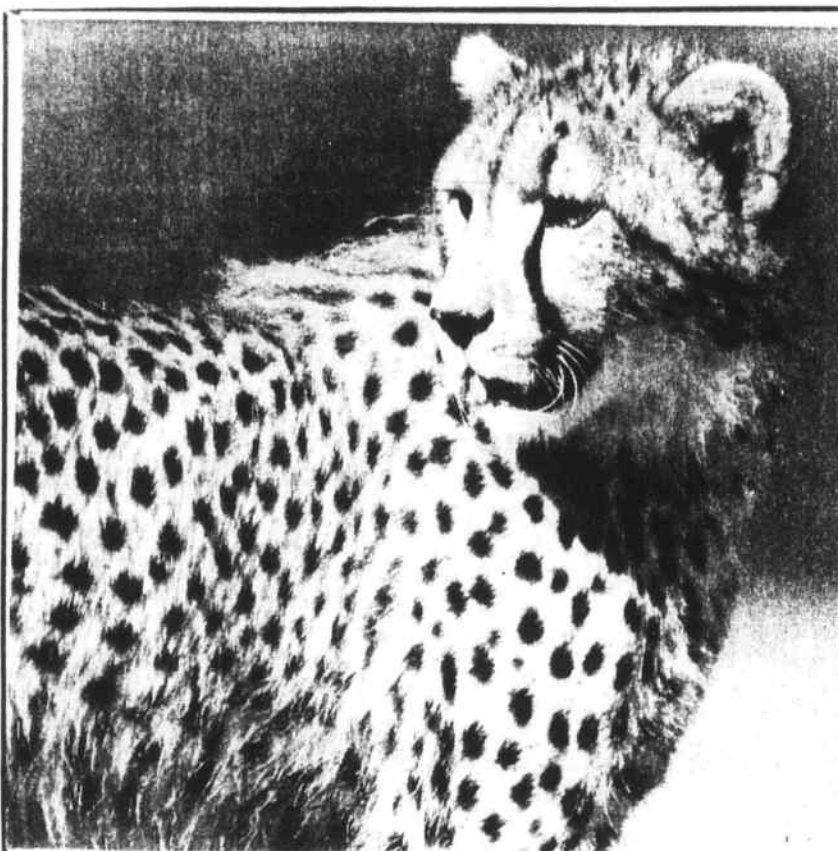

We do not charge any fee for transportation in or out of town on our minibus. All we ask is to be ready when the driver arrives.

Volunteer needed

We have had a request from the school department for seniors to volunteer in the school system to help students having difficulty keeping up with the classes. If you would like to help, call Mr. Fay at the high school.

Thanks, Bob

We extend our thanks to Bob Palmer of the public works

Horse shoes anyone?

We have a few seniors eager to play horse shoes, but to make up teams a few more will be needed. We have a large number of programs to help seniors make new friends, and keep seniors active, such as, exercise class, dance class, swimming, bowling, walking, art class, ceramic class, craft and shop classes. If none of these programs interest you, maybe horse shoes will. Why not join the seniors trying to form a couple of teams?

Outrage OF THE WEEK WASTE AMIDST SUFFERING

As I watched the 25th Jerry Lewis Telethon this weekend several things struck me. First was the bravery of the children stricken with muscular dystrophy and the poignancy of their stories. I was struck by the generosity of the American people, once again giving over 40 million dollars so, perhaps, future generations would not face this dread disease.

Then I thought that $40 millions is only a small fraction of what the Beacon Hill gang wastes each year. Over 500 authorities, hacks, cronies — the waste seems endless. Yet kids are suffering and the taxpayers are taxed-out!

It's time for new leadership!

Outdoors column

Where have all the anglers gone?

by Bill Conlon
This is a funny time of year. Not Ha-Ha funny, but odd funny. It's still hot, and summer is still in effect. But nobody is giving much thought to fishing anymore.

How odd.
Then again, the kids are back in school, and the vacation crowd has left for the season. Labor Day has passed, and that means summer is (by custom) gone. Not really, since the Autumnal Equinox won't arrive until the next-to-last week of this month, but everybody feels like the summer has ended. That's too bad.

The bass are happily blowing up all and sundry things they can catch, the fall trout stocking starts soon, as water temperatures will be dropping into the trout's liveable range again, and even the pickerel are hitting.

The fishing is still quite hot. It is, really! It's just that there's nobody left on the ponds anymore.

Everybody seems to be spending all their attention on hunting and archery skills. New Hampshire's bow season for deer begins in one week, and Massachusetts archers will be pulling strings soon, which has drawn away from fishing.

Of course, the sporting goods and related shops are ordering hunting stuff, instead of fishing stuff, but that's the odd nature of sales. Try to find a swimsuit in August, or a pair of good snow boots when February is in full howl. Unlikely. Instead, stores stock up for what is ahead, not for the season under way.

The ice won't form for another two or three months, depending on the weather, and it will be January before fishing once again is tops on the outdoor fun list.

(Just as an impolite observation, remember how frigid it was during December of 1989? Temperatures got above freezing only on the very last day of the month. Now, notice how many women are due to give birth in the next few weeks. Hmm. Now count nine months from a cold December to a September "labor day." Ahem. Sorry.)

But without the kids, and the day-trippers, and the vacationers, there just aren't many people left on the pond. It seems vacant, lonely.

Actually, fish are active as ever. If I have to fish alone, so much the better. It's a nice change of pace from the crowded lakes and ponds of July.

Besides, there's a special serenity found only on a pond as the leaves change colors, quietly fishing for enthusiastic bass all alone.

Sure, I'll get involved in hunting soon enough, and ice fishing after that.

But not yet. There's still a couple of weeks of summer left, and they are too precious to waste.

--- Tackle Box ---

Sorry kids. My better half is still in the hospital, still in the intensive care unit, and I just haven't been on the ball lately. Bear with me. I'm a burnout case in the making.

This Saturday, the state's Aquatic Resources Education Program (or formerly called the Urban Anglers) will hold a free fishing instruction clinic on Ames Pond in Tewksbury. Head honcho José Cambrils (who also happens to be president of the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers club) is hosting the seminar from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Bring your own gear if you can, but some will be available for borrowing if you need. The class is being sponsored as part of the Met-Life Outdoors Series, so call (617) 437-1508 to make a reservation, if you want, or just show up.

Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club will be a hoppin' place for the next few weeks. On September 22, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., the club will hold a Gun Show (nee) Crafts Fair (nee) Flea Market at their headquarters on Chandler Street. Call Cheryl at 658-6830 to reserve a space (at $15 per table.)

Also coming to TR&G this month is their annual Sportsmen's Family Rendezvous, September 30, from 10 a.m. onwards. The event will see a 15-target 3-D archery shoot, all sorts of shooting events (starting at 1 p.m.) with rifle and pistol shoots and a frontier black powder shoot, plenty of hot chow including a pig roast and fresh clams, fly casting contests for kids and adults, pony rides, horseshoes ... looks like a long day at Chandler Street. Tickets are $5 in advance, $6 that day.

September 16 will see the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers annual Fall Bass and Carp Derby on the Merrimack River. Entry is $15 at the Lowell bathhouse, with fishing from the N.H. line to Duck Island.

Runners enjoy 'wild' race

More than 200 professional and amateur runners travelled a course around Spot Pond at the recent Fourth Annual Run Wild Road Race at the Metropolitan District Commission's Stone Zoo, according to Dr. Mark Goldstein, executive director of the Metro Parks Zoos.

The five mile race is sanctioned by the New England Athletic Congress and can be used to qualify for other races.

In addition to the adult race, more than 50 children participated in Kids' Run Wild, a mini-race around the Stone Zoo parking lot.

"Despite State fiscal realities, Stone Zoo continues to receive generous support from the public, as evidenced by the turnout here today," Dr. Goldstein said at the awards ceremony following the race.

Wendy Davis, chair of the Stone Zoo Advisory Committee, thanked zoo visitors for the recent surge of letters and phone calls to state legislators in support of level funding for the MetroParks Zoos and passage of the "Zoo Bill" to create the Commonwealth Zoological Corporation. "The outcry has been tremendous, and more calls and letters are still necessary if we want to be here again next year for the fifth annual Run Wild," Davis said.

Dr. Goldstein awarded prizes to the first, second and third male and female winners in the following categories: Kids Run Wild-ages up to six and seven-12; Run Wild ages 13-39 and 40 and up.

Davis and the Stone Zoo Advisory Committee presented plaques to the overall male and female winners.

Run Wild was sponsored by the MDC MetroParks Zoos, Boston Zoological Society, Stone Zoo Advisory Committee and Cambridge Sports Union.

Strong finish

Eleven-year-old Jay Isberg of Wilmington placed second in the seven to 12-year-old age category at the recent MDC Stone Zoo's Fourth Annual Run Wild Road Race.

Also contributing to the event were the following Stoneham businesses: Baskin Robbins, 31 Ice Cream Store, Bud's Sunoco, Burger King, City Cycle Inc., Dairydome, and Friendly Ice Cream Corporation; as well as Poland Spring Distributing of Tewksbury.

Stone Zoo and Franklin Park Zoo in Boston comprise the MetroParks Zoos. Founded in 1905, Stone Zoo is home to sea lions, tigers, orangutans, wallabies and one of the largest aviaries in the country.

The zoo is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.. Admission is free for Boston Zoological Society members and children under five; $2 for children five to 17; students with valid ID, senior citizens, and uniformed military; and $4 for adults. Everyone is admitted free on Tuesday afternoons. For more information, call (617) 438-3662.

Another season of NFL picks

by Mike Stuart

AFC playoff teams,
Buffalo, Cincinnati, Kansas City,
Denver, Cleveland.

NFC playoff teams
Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, New York and L.A.

Five sleepers
Detroit, Miami, San Diego,
Atlanta and, yes New England.

Super Bowl
Denver vs Minnesota in the battle of the 0-4 Super Bowl losers.
(Really, I like S.F. if they stay healthy, Philly, if they don't).

Denver 27 Raiders 20
The Broncos are a good road team, while the Raiders are good,
but not good enough.

Buffalo 34 Indy 16
Without Dickerson, Indy will be lucky to win any of their first six games.

Patriots 23 Miami 17
It will matter who the starting Patriots' QB is, but this rivalry brings out the best in both teams.

Washington 34 Phoenix 10
The 'Skins should be tough all year on weaker teams, while Phoenix is two years away from being a decent squad.

Houston 28 Atlanta 24
This Falcon group is going to scare some people, including Glanville's old team.

Cincinnati 30 N.Y. Jets 21
Too much offensive power for N.Y. to compete with. Then again, that applies for most teams.

Kansas City 17
Minnesota 14
These are two of the best defensive teams in the league and given that fact, the game will probably end up, 51-48.

Cleveland 24 Pittsburgh 20
Although it hasn't been said, I like the Steelers brand of ball, but the Browns are at home and that is worth at least four points.

Los Angeles 26
Green Bay 14
With Majik, I'd have the Pack in the playoffs, but without, they're a
.500 club, maybe.

Chicago 17 Seattle 6
If Ditka just stayed with one QB, the Bears would contend with the best of them. Problem is, he continues to juggle Tomazek and Harbaugh with no resolution in sight.

San Diego 24 Dallas 21
Dallas is rebuilding rather well, and could win four or five games this year. The Chargers are one or two players away from challenging
Denver and K.C.

Detroit 38 Tampa Bay 30
The Bucs play the Lions tough at the Dome, but the run and shoot will prevail in a western style shootout.

N.Y. Giants 31
Philadelphia 26
A victory for either team is essential. The reasons are obvious since the Giants lost both time Philly last year, and still won division. But I'm sure they'd want to duplicate that feat.

San Fran 27 New Orleans
Last year's game here was thriller. Look for a repeat of the theatrics and then look for threepeat from the Niners.

Merrimack Valley swim tryouts

The Merrimack Valley Pirate
Swim Team will hold tryouts
Monday September 10 through Friday September 15, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Greater Lawrence
Technical High School, 57 River Road, Andover.

MVP is an age group team for swimmers six and older and is affiliated with United States
Swimming.

Registration will begin at 5 p.m.
each day followed by tryout sessions.

Swimmers new to the age group experience are invited to participate in the team workouts during tryout week to evaluate the program.

During the recent Summer Long Course season the Pirates continually placed high in meets throughout New England.

In July the team finished third in the Ocean State Aquatic Invitational in Narragansett, R.I. and came in ninth in a field of 45 teams in the New England Age

Group Championships at Harvard University in August.

Also this summer, 20 swimmers
from the SG Berlin-Nord Swim Team of Berlin, West Germany, and their coaches spent three weeks living and training with the Pirates.

The West Germans not only sampled American culture, but competed in local area swim meets as well. In 1991, the Pirates will travel to Germany to complete the exchange.

During the short course season

MVP swimmers achieved nationally reportable times and boasts team members who made the N
England Top Ten rankings.

Rick Battistini is the head coach of the Merrimack Valley Pirates and is assisted by Josh Willm.
Steve Weisfeldt, Lou Rosenfi and Patty Fitzgerald.

Money Matters

A ride down 'gasoline alley'

Gasoline! Americans just can't live without it. And once again the crisis in the Mideast has brought the country's attention to this fossil fuel. But where do you buy your gas and why? The multibillion dollar oil corporations have done numerous studies to determine just what makes a consumer use one gasoline rather than another. As a result there exists numerous buying options ranging from regular unleaded to super, from self service to full and from cash only to credit cards. The multifaceted market in Wilmington and Tewksbury certainly is no different. Today there are 21 gasoline stations between the two towns, 10 in Tewksbury and 11 in Wilmington.

The major oil companies are obviously the most numerous of these. Shell ranks highest with four stations followed by Mobil with three. But if you prefer to "trust your car, to the man who wears the star" you can find two Texaco stations, one each in Wilmington and Tewksbury. There are also two Gulf, two Sunoco, two Citgo and one Exxon.

In the past few years the trend has been toward self service stations. Gone forever are the days of free daisy glasses and green colored coffee mugs to entice the consumer. Instead today cost is the dominant sales factor and the easiest way to keep the price of gasoline down is to keep overhead low. This is achieved at the self service stations by the elimination of station attendants. If you want your oil checked, it makes a heck of a lot more sense to do it at home rather than to pay the approximately 15 cents more a gallon you will be charged if you drive into the full service island rather than the self.

Independent oil companies have also made a definite mark in the gasoline market in Wilmington and Tewksbury. Here the gas is somewhat cheaper, but usually you have to pay cash, and God knows, there isn't much of that around these days. In Wilmington Hess and Gibbs are the largest of these independent and in Tewksbury, Haffner on Main Street is by far the biggest. Interesting though, at Hess full service is all that is offered, while Haffner's offers only self services.

But these independents do not offer automotive service. And in small communities like Wilmington and Tewksbury, the idea of friendly service still ranks high on consumer preference lists. At D&D Texaco in Wilmington your gas is pumped full service with usually a joke or two added by station attendant Steve Surdam. Steve certainly makes for some interesting fillups, especially if you catch him around Halloween when he dons his monster costume or at Christmas time when he places his portly body inside a well fitting Santa suit.

Of the 21 stations now in service in the two communities, eight offer full service only, 11 offer either full or self and two offer self only. This low number of "self service only" stations are a definite indication that there are still many consumers who see service as a top priority.

In the race to attract more gasoline consumers the combination gasoline station, Mini Mart has emerged. Recently, in Tewksbury at the corner of Shawsheen and Main streets, Texaco has opened just this type of establishment. Here one can fill his car with gas while buying the newspaper, candy, cigarettes or a variety of other essential household items. Shell offers this same convenience at the corner of Pike Street and Main in Tewksbury. Surveys show that the price on gasoline in this type of establishment is within the competitive limits.

Currently there is a proposal for another of these combination service stations on Route 133 in Tewksbury. At this point in time, there are no combination service outlets in Wilmington. But their convenience makes it a certainty that it is only a matter of time before Wilmington residents will also be nibbling a candy bar while pumping gas.

Gasoline! You bet, Americans just can't live without it.

Lions Club walk-a-thon

Tewksbury Lions Club will sponsor walk-a-thon to benefit Mass. Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc.

On Saturday, Sept. 8, the Tewksbury Lions Club will be conducting the annual Journey to Sight Walk-a-Thon. The beneficiary of the proceeds from this event will be the Mass. Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc.

The Journey for Sight Walk will start and end at the Livingston Street Youth Center, Tewksbury. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. with the walkers kicking off at 9.

This event has been scheduled to coincide with the annual Tewksbury Homecoming Weekend. A sizable number of people are expected to participate, and pledge sheets and additional information are being distributed to every household in the community and additional copies are available by calling (508) 858-0777.

In Massachusetts, approximately 38 years ago the Mass. Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc. was established and the accomplishments derived through the funds collected by local Lions Clubs are extraordinary. Massachusetts Lions Eye Research money has gone to fund virtually every innovation in eye research and eye care, from the invention of surgical instruments to soft contact lens to laser eye surgery.

Lions Clubs International is the world's largest service organization, with a membership in excess of 1,300,000 members in 38,000 clubs, in 163 countries in the free world, and now several clubs in the Communist bloc.

It pays to have an engineer on board

From the beginning to the present, day the Wilmington Board of Water & Sewer Commissioners has always consisted of one civil engineer and two businessmen. Alden N. Eames, a Civil Engineer for the Boston Elevated was on the first board. The businessmen were Caleb Harriman and Louis McMahon.

Today, 64 years later, the engineer is Noel D. Baratta and the other two members are Arthur Smith and James Ring. Baratta is the chief engineer of the Boston DPW. Smith, the chairman, is a private contractor and Ring is an assistant accountant for the US Department of Labor, Employment Training. He works in all six New England states. All are appointed, not elected. All are Wilmington residents and all serve without pay.

They work in a thoroughly professional manner. Every physical improvement that has been made, over the years, was first designed by an outside firm of engineers, and then approved by the board. There is no such thing as having a six inch water main as a part of a long eight inch water main such as the writer has seen in the plans for one community.

The work that has been done in Wilmington for the past dozen years or so was designed when George Allan was on the board. Mr. Allan is vice president of a New England engineering firm. He knew what was needed but an outside engineering firm was hired to do the planning.

Now, with Baratta as an engineer the board is planning many future projects, but no engineers will be hired until the three commissioners see the way clear to begin. Mr. Smith, as a local contractor, is a person who can "see" such projects in the future, the kind that can mean a financial savings for the department and the town.

No tax money is ever appropriated by the town for the Sewer and Water Department, with one exception. That exception is for a payment, annual, to the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), and is

Water Business

Wilmington's share of the sewer expenses of the MWRA. The annual cost to Wilmington at this time is about $700 thousand.

The commissioners are very much on the alert to further extend the sewer services of Wilmington. Every sewer extension means more revenue for the Sewer and Water Department, and a consequent savings in costs to the MWRA.

The Ballardvale Street sewer, installed a few years ago is an excellent example of planning a sewer extension. Several real estate firms were involved.

They proposed construction of a sewer, and after discussion they hired engineers to plan that construction. Those plans were then reviewed by engineers for the Water & Sewer Department, after which the new sewers were constructed.

There was no cost to the town. There was a major increase in sewer flow, and a major decrease in cost to Wilmington because of the increased in payments to the town.

A church in search of a congregation

By DOUGLAS WOOD-BOYLE

If the hopes of the last of the present congregation are realized, the church building which housed the First Unitarian Universalist Parish of Woburn will continue the religious spirit that has been its history for 141 years. Because of declining membership the majestic edifice located on Woburn Common is in the process of being sold.

The members of the First Unitarian Parish would like to see their church building continue on as just that, a church. The building has been a church since it was first constructed by the Congregational Church in 1841. The Universalists took it over in 1865.

The parish members are winding down its use of the building and taking the necessary steps to make sure that it is secure. However, as they do this they are leaving behind a spirit that will always remain with the building. A spirit of love and precious memories.

The final 10-members of the church, under the leadership of Mrs. Olive Shaw, president of the Parish, will be reaching out to help strengthen one or more of the Unitarian parishes in the surrounding communities of Melrose, Lexington, Stoneham, Wakefield and Reading.

They will find themselves welcomed into communities that are growing as the Unitarian Universalist Association (UUA) is throughout the world.

The UUA is reporting its seventh straight year of growth and its largest one-year leap in the last 20 years.

According to the UUA headquarters in Boston, last year saw a growth of 1.4 percent in adults and 4.8 percent in youth.

In a recent statement UUA President Rev. Dr. William F. Shulz said "It is clear from our record of continued growth throughout our denomination, that people are reaching out to embrace the liberal religious traditions. The growth spurt seen this year, marking the largest one-year gain in members in 24 years, is exciting and bodes well for the association."

According to the UUA figures the church reaches through the United States, Canada and overseas countries.

Rev. Timothy Ashton, district executive for the Massachusetts Bay District of UUA agrees with the growth figures. He said that the district, which spreads from Gloucester south to Quincy and west to Framingham, is the smallest district in size but one of the largest in church population.

Rev. Ashton attributes some of this to the fact "this is kind of the homeland of the Unitarian Universalist."

In a recent Woburn Daily Times Chronicle article John "Ed" Fogelberg stated that "the history of the church goes back to the middle of the 18th century, when a number of clergymen, products of Harvard College, were preaching what was essentially Unitarianism."

Rev. Ashton also credits the popularity of the UUA to the fact that it is made up of local churches. He explained that rather than being led by the UUA, the local churches are supported by the national association.

Ellen Allman, director of Religious Education in the Wakefield parish sees a shift in the population as adding to the growth of that parish.

"We had more older people, now we have more younger people," she explained.

THE UNITARIAN-UNIVERSALIST CHURCH on Woburn Common has seen a declining church membership in recent years and it has been decided that the stately ple," she explained.

To help add to the church's numbers the parish has been sponsoring not only more religious education, but also activities such as Haunted Church (at Halloween), flea markets, children's and adult coffee houses and clothing collections.

"We have been trying to publicize our existence as much as we can," Allman said.

In Stoneham, Reverend Ronald Clark takes a more spiritual stance to explain the growth of the parish he serves.

"We have as small church but a broad spectrum of ages," he said.

Clark added that many UUA ministers, like himself, do things such as helping young couples to write their own wedding vows and later the services for the christening of the children.

He said that he spends time with the couples asking why they are taking the actions. Whether it is through their own beliefs or for the good of the church.

"I think it helps the denomination grow. I know that it helps my church."

Clark said that he also spends time reaching out to new parishioners and trying to get them involved with various church activities.

No one can really explain why the Woburn parish has come to its end. It is not because of a lack of faith in Unitarianism. Shaw explained that the off-spring of many of the members have moved out of the community and joined other parishes.

However, from all the indications, the church may be closing down, but it will still be a part of the community.

From its beginnings in 1847, many of Woburn's most famous families have been associated with church building will be sold; hopefully to another church group. The remaining membership will join Unitarian churches in neighboring communities.

ROVING DAN FERULLO

A reader phoned to tell us a story about what happened to his two pre-teenaged children, while under the supervision of an older, married daughter who lives next door, while he and his wife were on vacation recently.

Terry, who is an adorable blue-eyed, blonde-haired ten-year-old, and her twelve-year-old brother, Steven, were doing what most young kids do around the house on a warm, late summer's afternoon: They were playing games and getting themselves into innocent mischief.

When Steven went into their parents' bedroom and came out with a pair of handcuffs, the children's play, unbeknownst to Terry and Steven, was about to lose its innocence. Terry and Steven's father is a detective on the state police and he had, prior to leaving on vacation with his wife and the children's mother, absentmindedly left his handcuffs on their bureau.

Steven had waited until just the right moment to go into the bedroom to retrieve the handcuffs. When he appeared in the living room with them displayed between his hands, Terry stopped short in her tracks, an automatic gesture that said, that her brother shouldn't be playing with their father's equipment.

"I dare you to put these on," Steven said. They had been playing "dare you" a good part of the afternoon. Each time, one would attempt to outdo the other with risky dares. They had been silly dares up till then - Terry had done things such as tumbling across the living room floor. But suddenly the dares had taken on a serious air of risk.

Steven taunted Terry again, to which she remained steadfastly still. Finally, she gave in and told her brother to go ahead and put the handcuffs on her wrists. She didn't want to lose the dare, and besides, Steven must have had the key, also.

He slipped one of the cuffs onto Terry's wrist, just as their father had shown them once, and tightened it as hard as he could. Terry winced, pulling her cuffed hand away from Steven's grip. "Hey, not so tight!" she cried out.

"Come here," Steven ordered, taking hold of his sister's cuffed wrist and pulling her over to the corner of the room. There he

About the Towns

by Phyllis Nissen

READING - Myotherapy - "nothing like it in the Boston area" - with exercise therapist Betsy Wilkes is high-energy, non-impact, non-invasive pain relief and fitness therapy designed "to comfortably get you moving" whether you're 26 or 86.

Non-competitive classes target beginners, the overweight, and those in chronic pain because of diseases or syndromes such as arthritis, carpal tunnel, thoracic outlet, bursitis, fibromyalgia, headaches or occupation-induced pain and sports injuries.

"Our goal," says Wilkes, "is to work muscles, but not overwork them. We keep repetitions to a minimum - we change movements every 20 seconds to prevent repetition fatigue."

For more information on fall classes, contact Wilkes at 942-0840.

WINCHESTER - Winchester Town Meeting has approved construction plans for the Arthur Griffin Museum on Shore Road as soon as a $200,000-plus endowment fund is established.

With the cost of building and site improvements donated by Griffin, the new photography center and museum will be a self-sufficient, non-profit institution displaying nationally known photographic exhibits, housing a gift shop and funding photography scholarships.

Committee members are Robert Spiller, Bill Bird, Robert Horne, Leo Pistorino, Joan Johnson, Larry D'Onofrio, Bill Dingwell, Alan Macdonald, and Whitney Gay.

For more information, contact Horne at (617) 729-0764 or Johnson at (617) 729-6342.

NORTH READING - North Reading residents Jay H. Arthur, Jeffrey Russo Coughlin and David Scott Place have been named to the annual publication "Outstanding Young Men in America."

The publication recognizes the achievements and abilities of men between 21 and 40 who make civic and professional contributions to community, state and nation.

BURLINGTON - A special Burlington Town Meeting has approved the purchase of the town's only skating rink, the Ice Pallace. The meeting also approved warrant articles which would create a $300,000 enterprise fund for the Pallace and transfer $21,000 in free cash to pay for the 20-year purchase of bonds.

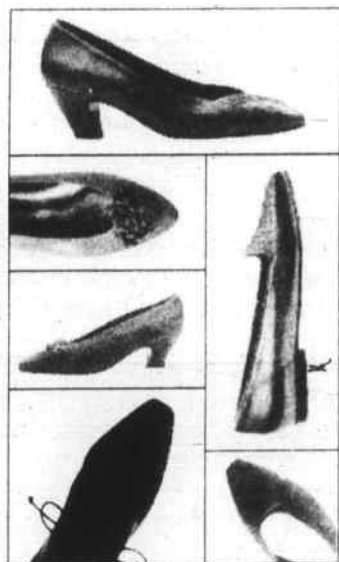

The town currently leases the rink from owner John Graham, and the only loss in revenue expected when the town takes ownership is the loss of $20,000 in property taxes.

SENIOR CENTER - Designed to keep you young but at the same time, glad to be on the senior side of things: Reading High principal Dr. Mark Piechota needs volunteers to person the high school office. Duties include answering the phone, taking messages and greeting guests of all ages.

"Even two hours a week would be a great help," says Piechota. "We'll be running a volunteer orientation this month."

Did you vote against a Prop. 2.5 override? Here's a million dollar opportunity to put your mouth where your money was. For more information, call Piechota or Kathy Mehlman at 944-8200.

the church. This is attested to by the beautiful stain glass windows that adorn the church. These windows are inscribed with such family names as Winn, Choate, Frost and others.

As for being a part of the community, even this past week contributions are still being made. The Woburn Public Library has recently received four paintings from the church.

Library Director Kathleen O'Doherty described them as depicting a still life and scenes from North Conway N.H.

The paintings were all done by local artist Benjamin Champney.

Shaw explained that Champney was one of the early founders of the church.

One thing is certain about the Woburn church building, it is an historic structure and still has much use to the community.

Roving

entered the house through the front door. She spotted Terry and Steven in the corner, and was suddenly awash with shock.

"What are you two up to?" The query was rhetorical. She knew exactly what they had done, and she instantly scolded them for getting into their father's equipment. "Dad would be furious, if he saw the two of you now."

Terry pleaded with her to find the key. She checked the parents' bedroom, but returned without the key. "I can't find it," she said. She observed the look of distress on Terry's face, and decided it wasn't time to hand out any more scolds. For a brief instant, except for the obvious pain in Terry's wrist, she actually found the whole situation rather funny.

Terry's older sister blocked the amusing thought from her head, and brainstormed for a way to set Terry free. There was only one solution: "I'll have to call the fire department," she said.

"You can't do that," Terry said, adding that their next door neighbors might see the fire truck pull up. The next door neighbors had been asked to keep an eye on the kids and the house while their parents were away. "If they see the fire truck, they might call dad, and then he'll be mad when he gets home."

The older sister agreed, and said, "Dad's going to be mad anyway when he gets home, cause he's going to find his handcuffs ruined."

"What do you mean?" Terry asked.

"Because there is just one thing left to do, and that's march down town to the fire station, and have them cut the cuffs off there."

"I've got to walk downtown with this lamp locked to my wrist?" Terry exclaimed. "Everybody will laugh at me!"

"You deserve to be laughed at," her sister said, disappearing into the bedroom again.

Terry asked, "Where are you going now?"

Her sister reappeared with a Polaroid camera in her hands. "I've got to take a picture of this. Mom and Dad won't believe it unless they see it for themselves."

Terry's sister removed the lamp shade, and she instructed Terry to place her head in its place. Her sister snapped a picture, making sure that Terry's wrist and the handcuffs were clearly visible. "O.K.," she said, "it's time to head down to the fire station."

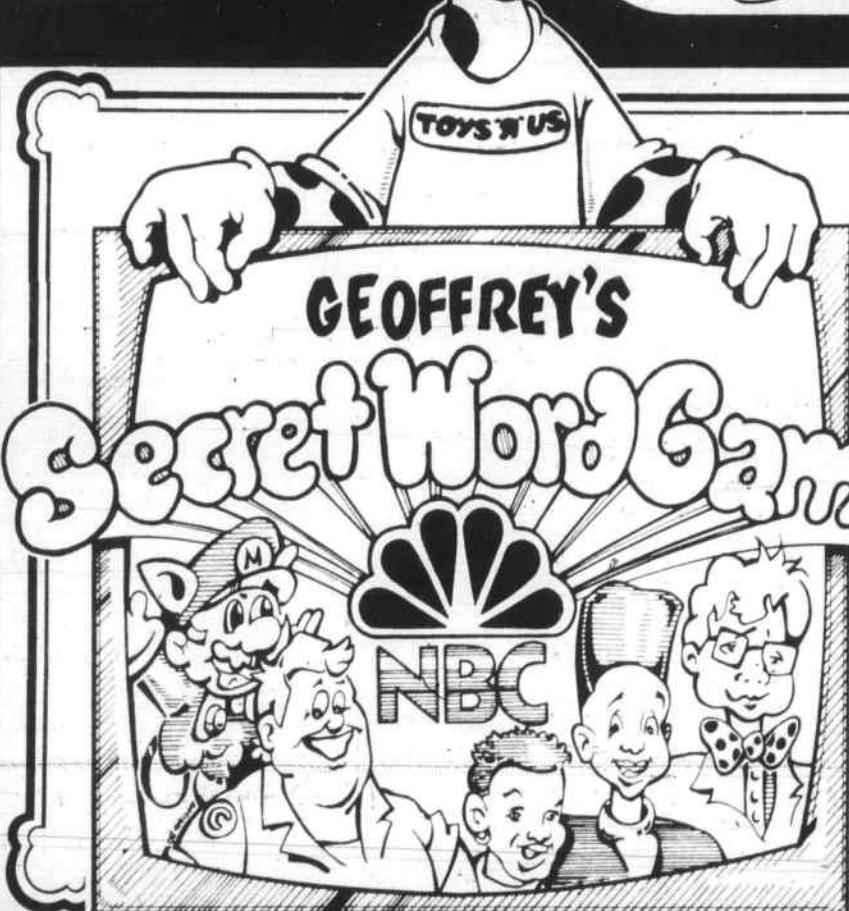

Gripping the brass lamp stand, Terry, along with Steven and her older sister, marched an eighth of a mile to the center of town, where the fire station was located. All along the way, passers-by curiously regarded the little blonde girl with the lamp stand handcuffed to her wrist. Terry was humiliated. Her older sister was clearly getting a kick out of the situation, and felt Terry was definitely learning a lesson.

At the first station, the firemen on duty recognized Terry's last name - one of the firemen was a close friend of Terry's father, and they also found the whole situation amusing. With the aid of the jaws of life, Terry was freed from the brass lamp stand and handcuff.

When Terry's father and mother returned from their vacation, her father reacted just as her older sister had said he would: He was furious! Not because Terry had found herself locked to the brass lamp, but because the firemen had had to ruin a perfectly fine pair of handcuffs!

After yet another scolding, Terry decided it was time to call it quits with any dares presented to her by her older brother.

LIGHTHOUSE BICENTENNIAL EXHIBIT AT BPL

A bicentennial exhibit commemorating the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Lighthouse Service will be on display at the Boston Public Library in Copley Square during the month of September. Artifacts from a collection owned by Richard Boonisar of Norwell that includes early lighthouse uniforms, buttons, and hats, revolving libraries, old watches and time pieces, and a variety of brass fixtures will be on display.

The exhibit, which is cosponsored by the Lighthouse Preservation Society, also includes information on Boston Light, the first lighthouse built in the Western Hemisphere. Constructed in 1716 on Brewster Island in Boston Harbor, it was destroyed by the British during the Revolutionary War and rebuilt in 1783. It has been in continuous service ever since and is one of the last remaining lighthouses in the United States still operated by Coast Guard personnel.

The future of the Boston Light, which is scheduled to be automated later this year, will be the subject of a seminar at the BPL on Saturday, September 8.

The color photos of lighthouses from around the world, with special emphasis on New England, were taken by James Hyland of Gloucester and Robert Dennis of Andover.

The exhibit is free and open to the public from September 4 through 29 in the Great Hall and the Boston Room of the Central Library Monday to Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Fridays and Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anti-Diet Weight Loss

The New Alternative

SUFFERING IS OPTIONAL.

If you have tried dieting in the past and failed, you are not alone. For many, diet is part of the problem, not its solution. Thin people don't want to eat more than they should. So how come you do? When you learn to think about food the way thin people do, then you will eat casually and controllably, just as they do.

Based on: successful work with overeaters in therapy, this unique, ten-week program was developed to help healthy people to finally control their eating without the need for discipline and the constant struggle against temptation.

WHY WAIT?

This small-class experience is not another diet or food supplement program, but a new opportunity for a permanent change in your relationship with food and your body. You can be happy with both, now.

PREVIEW: To give you a full description of this effective solution to over-eating, we offer a full, two-hour preview at our offices. Admission is $10. Call early to reserve your place, as seating is extremely limited.

"Darkman"

by Rochelle Flynn

"Darkman" Starring Liam Neeson, Frances McDormand, Larry Drake, Colin Friels. Directed by Sam Raimi. Produced by Robert Tapert. Screenplay by Chuck Pfarrer, Sam Raimi, Ivan Raimi, Daniel Goldin, Joshua Goldin. Rated R.

Pulsating, loud, daring, funny and frenzied, "Darkman" has the heart of a 1950's science fiction adventure encased in the technological body of the Nineties.

It's bigger than big. Bolder too. Writer/director Sam Raimi has taken this story of a disfigured scientist way past the boundaries of conventional cinema. Definitely a flick for those of us who like our science fiction heaped way over the top of the film can.

Liam Neeson stars as a brilliant, sensitive scientist who has discovered a synthetic substitute for skin. The idea is to help burn victims. The problem is that the skin starts to fall apart after being exposed to sunlight for 99 minutes.

When Neeson's girlfriend, an attorney played by Frances McDormand, stumbles across a paper trail of corruption left by developer Colin Friels, it is Neeson who pays the price. His lab is torched and he's left for dead. Or so everyone thinks when a body is not recovered. In reality, Neeson has crawled off into the night, quite a bit angrier than when the action started.

The name of the game is revenge, but Raimi doesn't stop there. Neeson's mad scientist plays at Beauty and the Beast before becoming the Phantom of the Opera. He's tormented by his love for McDormand, yet his anger toward Friels and henchman Larry Drake is boundless. Using his synthetic skin for disguises, and several brilliant plans, he tracks down the men who destroyed his face, his work and his love life.

Aside from the sheer inventiveness of Neeson's revenge campaign, there is the added fun of Raimi's quirky, sometimes silly camera work. He does not have the eye of a conventional director. While most of his shots are refreshingly different, some are a bit on the artsy side. But Raimi also manages the best action scene of the summer - a helicopter chase that leaves us feeling as if we also dangled dangerously in the clouds.

Neeson, a gently looking guy, captures the sympathy needed for us to cheer him on after he metamorphosises into a grotesquely ugly monster. But the film's stand-out is Drake. Best known for his portrayal of the retarded Benny on "L.A. Law," he is amazingly evil as a hideously cruel, yet charming killer.

This is all done in a sweeping, campy style. Raimi gets in quite a few chilling, and gross effects, but there is a healthy dose of humor as well. "Darkman" is a fun flick, just make sure to leave your brains at the door.

Air America begins as a sharp satire of American involvement in Indochina during the late Sixties. An odd lot of burned-out airmen, including Mel Gibson and Robert Downey, Jr., pilot supplies and contraband all over Laos. About two-thirds of the way through the satire is replaced by righteous indignation, taking all the wind out of this flick's sails. Rated R. **

The Exorcist III is a badly scripted, directed, acted and produced horror flick capitalizing on the success of its predecessor. It would have been much better had it played as a true exploitation movie and not pretended to be a serious story. Rated R. X

Wild at Heart lacks the scary subtlety of writer/director David Lynch's "Blue Velvet," but still manages to entertain, even if you find yourself a bit disappointed. Nicholas Cage and Laura Dern play lovers on the run, tearing across the South in a skewed trip down the Yellow Brick Road. There's plenty of dark humor, but Lynch is right in our face the whole time, so the shock value he's going for quickly wears thin. Rated R. ** 1/2

Flatliners is the surrealistic story of five hot medical students who decide to "flatline" for a few minutes and then come back with the secrets of the grave. Only they carry back more than great dream sequences. More eerie than scary, this is a story bogged down in atmosphere. A great idea that just never lived up to its potential. Rated R. ** 1/2

Problem Child is a silly slick about a yuppie couple out to buy the one thing they can't get on their own - a kid. Only they get the Kid from Hell. Mildly amusing, the story tries too hard to make us laugh with an overdose of physical comedy that is none too inventive. Rated PG. * 1/2.

Young Guns II manages something few films achieve: It is better than the original. No, this isn't a classic Western, but this hopeful retelling of the demise of Billy the Kid provides much more of a real story than the commercial which posed as the original. It has a strong script and rich visuals. Unfortunately, Emilio Esteves never paints the Kid with much personality. He grins and he shoots. There had to be more to him than that. Rated PG-13. **

**** excellent
*** good ** fair
* poor

Bicyclists gear up for bike trek

An anticipated four hundred cyclists from across Massachusetts will come together again this year for the American Lung Association Autumn Escape Bike Trek. The trek, which will be held on consecutive weekends, September 14-16 and again on September 21-23 promises to be a "cause for a good time." The ride spans 150 miles of scenic backroads from Plymouth to Provincetown. All proceeds will benefit the American Lung Association of Middlesex County, the Christmas Seal People®.

Because the Autumn Escape Bike Trek is not a competition or race, bicyclists at every level of ability are encouraged to join. Trekkers ride at their own pace with plenty of time to shop and sightsee along the way. Accommodations are provided in Sandwich and Brewster with breakfast and dinner included. There's even an old fashioned New England clam bake. So "gear up" for the ride of the season and help the ALAMC fight lung diseases.

For more information call Ann-Marie Krol at the ALAMC, (617) 272-2866 or come to an information night meeting at Belmont Wheel Works, 480 Trapelo Rd., Belmont, 7 p.m.

Blues guitarist Buddy Guy is masterful in Cambridge

By EUGENE A. SYLVESTER

CAMBRIDGE - What does it take to make great music? Pure and simple: one lone bluesmaster who can make his guitar gently weep.

And Eric Clapton - who as legend has it played the lead guitar solos on George Harrison's "While My Guitar Gently Weeps" - was certainly right when he proclaimed blues guitarist Buddy Guy "as the greatest guitarist in the world." And that's because he is.

Recently, at Nightstage in Cambridge, just down from Central Square at 823 Main Street, Guy proved just how right Clapton was as he went about the business of playing the blues the way it was meant to be played: with conviction, with passion and with an abundance of soul.

Guy makes his guitar more than a musical instrument; he makes it a living being that can take on a life of its own due to the talent of a man who has yet to receive the public acclaim and commercial success he so rightly deserves.

But as Buddy said during his set, a true bluesman doesn't play for money, he plays because he loves the music.

From the moment he played his first lick to his highly original and climactic version of The Cream's "Sunshine of Your Love," Guy played like a man who was possessed by a spirit that wouldn't let him do anything wrong. God was watching over Buddy that night and He gave him the inspiration and fire that he needed to totally electrify a capacity crowd that was mesmerized every time Buddy got "real funky."

With a beautifully wide smile on his face, Buddy just went wild on his guitar. But he did it with such grace and class that he made you realize that only someone with this type of gift can truly call himself an artist.

Playing traditional blues most of the evening, Buddy played renditions of a number of blues standards - such as "Knock on Wood," "Sweet Home Chicago," "I Just Want to Make Love to You (by Muddy Waters)," "Sweet Little Angel," and Ray Charles's "What I Say," - in such a new and refreshing manner that the originals pale by comparison.

When Buddy's up the stage, you just know he's loving every minute of it because he's doing what he was meant to do: giving his audience their due. It's like he was saying through his music: "You came to listen to the best, and that's what I'm going to give you."

Ironically, despite the fact that the blues chronicles how low and desperate you can feel during any given crisis in your life, it still lifts your spirits and makes you feel good about feeling so bad. It renews your home and allows you to dream again.

And as one individual in the relatively unknown movie "Crossroads," put it, "the blues ain't nothing but a good man (or a good woman) feeling bad" about something that's gone wrong in his (or her) life.

Of course, David Bromberg once facetiously put it that "You Gotta Suffer To Sing The Blues;" and while he was only being half serious, singers like Janis Joplin and B.B. King, Muddy Waters, Howling Wolf, etc. have proved just how truthful that statement really is.

During his performance, while Buddy did very little talking during his set, he did manage a few quick quips. For instances, he said on a few occasions: "If you don't like this music, just say so; I can play (junk)."

Also, one of his better lines was: "I'm going to play some blues that so's funky you can smell it."

And to prove his sincerity as an artist, he said, "I came to play for you. Tell me what you want to hear."

Stephanie Miller was elected this year from thousands of dancers nationwide to be one of the approximately thirty 1991 Caravan Kids. She auditioned while at the Dance Convention in Orlando with other students and teachers from Ellens School of Dance.

Attending Dance conventions is one of the unique opportunities Ellens offers its students. Various fundraisers are held during the year to help defray the cost of these trips. This particular trip the students had the added bonus of seeing Collins perform.

Stephanie Miller is 17 years old; resides in Bedford and has been dancing for ten years. She will need about $7,000.00 to cover her travel expenses and Ellens School of Dance intends to assist her in holding various fundraisers.

An interview with Sam Raimi

By ROCHELLE O'GORMAN FLYNN

Among his influences he counts the Three Stooges, Fritz Lang, Jerry Lewis and Steven Spielberg. Not exactly what you'd expect from Sam Raimi, a man who makes strange, creatively violent films filled with dark humor and intelligence.

The 30-year-old director and co-writer of "Darkman" hails from Michigan, where he attended the State University before dropping out in 1978 to make his first picture, "Evil Dead," which was released in 1983. The film, along with its 1986 sequel, achieved cult status as a humorous and gory exploitation flick with a heart, be it a bloodied and battered heart.

His latest effort focuses on a mad (as in angry) scientist out to wreak havoc on the crimelords who disfigured him, destroying his work and his love life along the way. It's intense and off-beat, not unlike his other flicks. Ironically, Raimi is quiet, polite, and, for lack of a better description, a nice guy. The kind of man you'd bring home to meet your mom, provided mom hasn't seen any of his movies.

Not that anyone would be able to escape the advertising blitz accompanying "Darkman." Made for a budget most Tinseltown execs would consider modest - $14 million, it was a lot of money to Raimi. He seemed genuinely elated that Universal was footing the bill for a nation-wide release, as his previous, independent flicks merely trickled into theatres.

"It's nice to be able to go to a theatre to see one of your pictures where you don't think you're going to be killed. That's the only kind of theatres my pictures play in, the crummiest, worst, most dangerous neighborhoods," he said with a grin.

The director said that one of the great advantages about not working as a poor independent was being able to hire an orchestra, and Danny Elfman, to score the film. Raimi said that much of the energy in his picture comes from the music.

"The music really swept me along. Nowadays we're kind of sound effects heavy, like in "Die Hard." Even in the "Evil Dead" pictures, I'm guilty of that. But in the old pictures they had a much more romantic concept of film. They would tell it mostly with visuals and music. We tried to return to that style in our approach of the soundtrack in this picture."

The energetic, and influential, soundtrack is not all that sets this flick apart from others in the horror genre. Unusual camera work and visuals are more important than the dialogue. For instance, Liam Neeson becomes not only horribly disfigured and deranged in the leading role, but has to try to fit eye glasses over his bandaged face. It's a funny touch that is also touchingly funny. And one Raimi insisted upon over the objection of studio suits. He wanted Neeson to still have some basic, human problems.

"I don't think the modern connotation of horror, which is a much more intense genre, applies that much to 'Darkman.' I think the reason audiences like fantasy pictures, or maybe a picture like 'Darkman,' is because our lives are very much filled with shades of gray. It's nice to have the hero clearly identified on the screen. And the bad guy clearly identified. So, for 90 minutes, we know who to root for, as opposed to real life, where there is never anything so certain as in the pictures."

Considering his desire to instill this vein of humanity into the story, it's not surprising to learn that Raimi considers his scary flicks as a training ground for the more inspirational movies he hopes to direct some day. First, he must "learn his craft" before trying to deal "with the most difficult thing of all, which is human emotion."

Raimi said he hopes some day to film the works of Jack London, Rudyard Kipling and Nathaniel Hawthorne. Or, at the very least, to capture the sentiments about which these men wrote.

He is, apparently, still trying to do just that, as the next film Raimi is set to direct is an independent bearing the familiar moniker of "Evil Dead III."

ANTHONY MANCONI

I love to travel and, like Millay, I can truthfully say, "My heart is warm with the friends I make, and better friends I'll not be knowing; Yet there isn't a train I wouldn't take, no matter where it's going." Everybody takes vacations for different reasons. Some like to go to Florida and take pictures with the beautiful bathing beauties in the Cypress Gardens. Many others like to go to the mountains and you'll find others prefer the seashore. What I like about a vacation in August is that I get my pictures back in September, the bills in October and my luggage back in November!

My cousin, Angelo, said, "I spend three months of the year in Florida on the sand and the rest of the year on the rocks paying for it." My 80-year-old Aunt Nora asked the travel agent, "Can I get to Niagara Falls by Buffalo." The wiseguy agent smiled and said, "At your age ma'am, you'd be better off going by bus."

Some banks are having it tough these days. Some people don't worry whether their check will bounce but whether the bank is still in business when it gets there. My bank is having internal troubles, too. I saw a sign there yesterday saying, "Cashier Wanted." I said to the manager, "I thought you hired one two months ago." "Yes," he replied, "He's the one we're looking for!"

Nowadays there's a faster way of transferring funds, even faster than our modern electronic banking machines - it's called marriage. Those new fangled telephone answering machine are wonderful but they certainly do a job on my ego. I come home after being away all day and find out that no one was even thinking about me. People are being squeezed out by computers, vending machines, answering machines and automatic dialing machines - human beings, I'm afraid, are becoming obsolete.

I asked Mario DiMino, "Why so sad pal?" "My wife ran off with my best friend," he exclaimed, "and I miss him." I'll never understand why some people I know drive to their stock brokers offices in their Cadillacs or Lincoln Continentals to get financial advice from somebody who came to work on a bus. My broker told me, "Chips, get in on the ground floor, Otis Elevator is going UP!"

Personality Winners: Robert Taglieri, Joseph Lavacchia, Joseph Simas, Molly Day, Robin Lassman, Principal John J. Foley and Ana Macedo, all of Woburn; Fire Chief Leonard Redfern, Lt. Steve Ballou, Firefighter Roger Quimby and Carole Rindone, all of Reading; Allen Caproni, Michael DiOrio, Veronica DeLeo and Jimmy Geary, all of Lynnfield; Supt. Robert Neely, Diane Higden, Fr. Robert Doherty, Leland Prebble and Joseph Maggio, all of Burlington; Firefighters Tom Cavaretta and Peter Gove, Edmond and Maria Baratta and Florence Gosselin, R.N., all of Winchester; Kate Kelleher, Pamela Flynn, Lee MacNeil, Naomi Soloman and Mitzi Greenline, all of North Reading; Bob Knoetner, Hugh Wiberg, and Larz F. Neilson, all of Wilmington; Maureen McGurn, Suzie Johnson, Joseph and Patricia Foley and Edmund

Sargent, all of Tewksbury; Lee E. Debell, Willis Cobb, Diane Prince, Phil Piasecki and Rebecca Olin, all of Stoneham; Connie Johnson and Bill Cerretani, both of Wakefield.

Folks, yesterday is history, tomorrow a mystery that leaves us today to "love, live and laugh." Cole Porter said, "Never explain - never complain." Which reminds me - don't tell anyone your troubles, 50% aren't listening, 25% don't care and 20% are glad you have them, so, for a mere 5%, it isn't worth talking about them.

Officer Kevin Fisher rang my doorbell and Kathy said to him, "What the heck do you want? I'm busy practicing my piano lesson." "Well," Kevin said, "we got an emergency call that some guy named Beethoven is being murdered in this house." The reverend caught a man running an illegal still in the back woods of West Virginia. The judge was not only a legal beagle but also a Biblical Scholar. He said to the defendant, "I see that your name is Joshua. Are you the one who made the sun stand still?" "Yes, your honor," the bearded old man replied, "I'm the Joshua who made the moon-shine still."

A man was walking his Irish Terrier and Rowan Fitzgerald asked him what breed of dog it was. The gruff old bloke replied, "It's part Irish and part monkey." "Fancy that," Rowan exclaimed, "He's related to both of us!" My cousin, Maureen, asked to be transferred from the high school to a grade school teaching position. She told me she was tired of competing with the students for a parking space.

I am sure many readers of Woodchips have participated in many "barn raisings" or other noble public spirited projects. I have the brilliant "team effort" of the wonderful people of North Reading in mind. They, spearheaded by members of the Garden Club, built a playground called "Kid's Spot." Now, the same dedicated drive is being initiated by a committee in Stoneham for the same purpose. It is headed by Diane G. (DeSisto) McCarthy and Denise (Vaccon) Migliarini, who hope to build a "playground by the people." It would be wonderful if, like North Reading, it becomes a town effort to have a safe, wholesome area for kids to enjoy themselves. As a carpenter, I have helped in barn raisings or similar projects. Folks, you will be amazed at the indescribable warm feeling one gets after helping in those endeavors.

My cousin, Danny, married a beautiful Japanese girl last year. She has almost spoiled the whole neighborhood. She caters to Danny, hand and foot. Every night when he comes home from work, she has a warm foot-bath ready for him. She then dries his feet and brings him his slippers. "Why don't YOU do that?" I asked Kathy. "You must be off your rocker, fatso," she shouted. "If you want that kind of service, go

QP Players presents "The Boys Next Door"

The Quannapowitt Players are proud to announce the start of their 54th season of community theatre with the production of The Boys Next Door by Tom Griffin. First produced by The Trinity Repertory Theatre, where it was the first play in its history to be held over twice, Boys is the story of four mentally handicapped men; their lives, their loves, their innocence, their humor and their dismays. It is a poignant love story, laced with humor and frustration; in short, the story of us all.

The production is being directed by Nancy Curran of Burlington, and produced by Marlene Phillips of Stoneham. The cast includes Keith Field of Milford, New Hampshire, Rich Hanna of North Reading, Guiliana Lonigro of Malden, Shawn Maguire of Reading, Jay Martin of Wakefield, Marianne Matzo of Lowell, Jim Murphy of Haverhill, Susan Sanders of Haverhill, Rocco Sperazzo of Lexington, Martin Sotile of Boston and Mel Zolot of Burlington. Rounding out the technical crew is Sigrid Perkins of North Reading as stage manager and Kathy Moran of Wakefield in charge of properties.

Boys will be presented on September 14, 15, 21, 22, 28, 29, 30 and on October 5, 6. Curtain times are 8:15 p.m. on Friday and Saturdays, and 7 p.m. on Sunday. General admission tickets are $9, and Senior Citizen and student tickets are $8. Better yet, become a QP Season Subscriber and see four shows for the price of three: $28 for a regular subscription, and $25 for a Senior Citizen or student subscription.

candy. When Blondie came with the other slipper and saw no candy, she returned the slipper to the bedroom. Kathy had to sit to Japan and stay there!" I did the next best thing. I trained my Cocker Spaniel "Blondie" to bring my slippers to me. It worked this way. Blondie would bring me a slipper and I'd give her a dog candy charm. She would then run back and bring the other slipper for another candy charm. One day I had only one candy charm (I had given one to my boss who barked at me for loafing). I came home and the slipper came right away and so did my one and only down because of her uncontrollable laughter, then she shouted, "You idiot, you have at last met your match. Danny may have a Japanese wife but you have a Chinese dog who believes in 'no tickle, no washee. Only in this case that dog believes in 'no candy, no slippers'!"

When Scott Hamilton was experimenting on how and why a firefly can generate and emit light, the firefly accidentally backed into a revolving laboratory fan and exclaimed, "de-lighted, no-end!"

Creative movement classes offered for children this fall

Many children want to move and dance but are not ready for the rigors or specialization of formal ballet, acrobatics, or tap lessons. This year, Creative Arts has developed a new creative movement program for 2 1/2 to 8 year olds which focuses on the enjoyment of creative movement.

Intended for both boys and girls, this program will provide the fundamental skills of dance and musicianship in a relaxed atmosphere that is neither competitive nor technical. For the 3-8 year olds Diane McGhee, who is new to the Creative Arts faculty this year, will help the children develop a sense of rhythm, body awareness, poise and curiosity as they learn to work with their bodies in a group and individually. Ms. McGhee is a graduate of the James Madison University and is Director of the children's programs at the MJT Dance Company in Boston. She is also author of The Magic of Movement in the Classroom and has extensive performance and choreography experience.

For the tots, Mauve Bradley will offer Stepping Out, a class for 2 and 3 year olds which will enhance a child's creative and imaginative play through using parachutes, hoops, music and much more. Ms. Bradley has developed a preschool program which stresses large motor coordination and creative expression. Creative Arts continues with its Ballroom Dance class for adults taught by Andrea King who is well known for her private dance instruction in this area.

All dance classes will be held at the Creative Arts Center located in the First Congregational Church in Reading. Classes start the week of September 26 and run for 7 to 17 week sessions.

Creative Arts is a community arts and music center in Reading which offers an extensive program of arts enrichment to preschoolers through adults drawing students from over 30 communities. The school includes a full Suzuki violin program, orchestras, private instrumental lessons, art classes in all disciplines and various workshops for adults. Registration for fall classes is now in progress. Brochures are available at local libraries and at the Creative Arts Center located on Sanborn Street. For information about the dance, music or art programs call (617) 942-0538.

p.m.; and Sunday, September 9 from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The fun-filled weekend is in store for all who attend. Greek Music by Charlie Pappas will be provided on Friday and Saturday nights; The Salonika Sounds will provide music on Saturday afternoon; and the Asteria will entertain the Festival guests under the Tent on Sunday. Greek Food will be in abundance under the tents throughout the three days. Master Chef Spyro Mazarakis is heading the food committee which will serve Souvlakia, Pastichio, Mousakka, Loukaniko, Pilaf, Salad and vegetables. Marion Colman has led a group of ladies preparing the traditional Dolmathes - rolled grape leaves.

A special feature of the festival which always has a waiting line is the Taverna housed in its own building adjacent to the tents which features authentic Greek Foods. Whole legs of lamb, Plaki - Greek baked fish; Skordalia - a garlic dip; Calamari; Octopus; Greek Lima Beans to name a few will be served here. The Taverna is being overseen by Rev. Dr. George A. Karahalios who is insuring the authenticity of these Greek delicacies.
